Rocco and The Banker Again

-Kill us by inches or gouge us to death.

-By which you mean?

-The latter you don’t need explained because it’s common knowledge, despite your bribing both parties. The former entails your little piddling charges and add-ons and penalties. Infuriating!

-Uh huh. Well we don’t have many romantic views. There are costs to doing business. What would you suggest?

-One banker. One firing squad. I think those costs will magically fall in line after that.

-Can’t have a discussion with you!

-‘cuz we’ve had them.